Annual Internet Magazine Competition

Write an ezine project and help your school. It's open to all schools with students between the ages of 7 and 12. Students must write an ezine project every month. The article should be interesting and include text and photographs. There are two important prizes. The best ezine wins ten new computers for your school. The winners also write an article every month for the international school ezine.

When we text on our mobile phones, we don't use all the letters so we can write more quickly. In a text we don't always put the vowels (a, e, i, o, u) and we choose letters or numbers that sound the same, for example U (you), R (are), C (see), 2 (to, too) and 4 (for). There are some short sentences, too. LOL (Laugh out loud) means 'It's really funny'. We don't always use punctuation (capital letters, commas or question marks).

Look at the mobile phones. Can you understand the messages? Answer the questions.

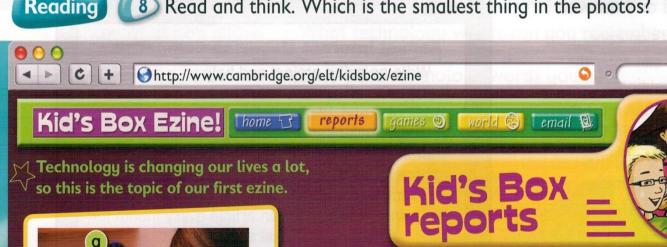

Write three text messages for your friends to answer.

8 Read and think. Which is the smallest thing in the photos?

We use technology every day when we communicate and when we study and play. When we talk to people, this is called communication. We can talk in person, on the phone or through the computer. On the computer we can talk into a microphone. If we want to see the other person on the screen, we use a small camera, called a webcam. We listen through small headphones or we use speakers.

Nowadays a lot of people use laptops, too. These computers are small and light so people can carry them to different places. A laptop has a screen and a keyboard and it opens like a notebook. The smallest laptops weigh about one and a half kilos, but > some people prefer to carry information from their computer on a pen drive, which they can carry anywhere.

We can also write to people when we want to communicate with them. Before, people wrote letters, but nowadays we can write emails or text on our phones. Emails and texts are quicker than letters, but 'chatting' is the quickest way to communicate on a computer because different people can write messages at the same time.

DID YOU KNOW ... ?

The characters in legends were often real people. King Arthur was a real person, but the sword in the stone is a legend.

1 Read and talk with your friend.

/hen we read books or someone tells us something, the information can be fact or fiction.

Fact means something which we know happened, is real or is true.

Fiction means something which isn't real. It is imaginary.

Think of three kinds of fiction texts and three kinds of fact text.

Myths and legends were some of the first stories which people told.

Both of them are kinds of fiction and very often follow the same design. In Greek myths there is usually a hero, mythical beasts, a quest with challenges (difficult things the hero must do) and someone who helps the hero.

Do you know any myths or legends? Talk about them. Who is in them? What do they do?

Jason and the Argonauts

Jason was the son of a Greek king, but his uncle, Pelias, was very bad and killed Jason's father because he wanted to become king. To protect Jason, his mother sent him to live with Chiron, a very clever centaur.

When he was older, Jason wanted to be king, so Pelias sent him on a very dangerous quest. He had to get the Golden Fleece and take it back to Pelias to become king. This was difficult to get because a dragon looked after it.

Jason sailed in the Argo, a special ship, with many other heroes who were called the Argonauts. They had a lot of challenges: they had to fight the harpies and sail between two big moving rocks. Jason finally arrived at the home of King Aetes, who gave him some more challenges. Jason did these difficult jobs with the help of Medea, Aetes' daughter. She also helped him to get the fleece. On his way home he had to escape from the sirens. He got home but he never became king.

A long time ago there were two Greek kings. Minos was the king of an island called Crete and Aegeus was the king of a city called Athens. Minos built a labyrinth on his island. Inside the labyrinth there was a terrible beast which was half man and half bull. It was called the Minotaur.

As part of a prize to Minos, Aegeus had to send some children to Crete every seven years. Minos put the children in the labyrinth and the Minotaur ate them. Aegeus' son Theseus decided to help the children. He sailed to Crete with the children and killed the Minotaur. Minos' daughter, Ariadne, gave him some string to help him leave the labyrinth.

Before Theseus left Athens, he told his father that if the sail of his ship was white when he came back he was safe, but he forgot to change the colour of the sail. When Aegeus saw the black sail he felt very sad and jumped into the sea.

reports games (world (email)

Our next ezine is about space travel.

The most famous space agencies in the world are NASA (in the USA), ESA (Europe) and the Russian and Chinese space programs. They build rockets and teach astronauts how to fly them. Rockets take a long time to build and cost a lot of money. They're too expensive to use as normal transport because they can only fly once. The European Space Agency is trying to build the first 'spaceplane'. This is exciting because it's the way we'll travel in the future. Engineers think their new spaceplane will be cheaper, and easier to build and use. People will use them to go to space stations in 2015.

At the moment space tourists can visit the Russian space station MIR, but it's very expensive. In 2001 an American businessman, Dennis Tito, paid $20 million to go for ten days. Some people think there will be different spaceplanes for tourists soon. They will fly higher than 100 km above Earth, the line where space starts. Flights will be two and a half hours and there will be a pilot and five or six tourists. The tourists will see Earth from above but they won't go to the Moon. For about five minutes they'll feel like they don't weigh anything and they will float inside the spaceplane. A ride in these spaceplanes will be cheaper than going to the MIR space station. It'll only cost $200,000!

(1) ______

We live on a planet, called Earth. There are seven other planets that go round, or orbit, the Sun in our solar system. The Sun is the star at the centre of our solar system. It is made of very hot gases which give us all our natural light and heat. It is about five billion years old and about 145 million km from Earth!

(3)

The Earth has a moon. A moon is like a planet but it doesn't orbit the Sun. It orbits the planet. The Earth's moon isn't the only moon in our solar system. For example, Saturn has 18 moons and Jupiter has more than 60 moons.

(4) _____

All of the planets orbit the Sun, but at different speeds. The time it takes a planet to orbit the Sun is a 'planetary year'. For Earth that is 365.26 days.

Planets orbit the Sun, but at the same time they turn round, or spin. This is why we have the daytime, when our part of Earth is facing the Sun and the night when it's dark. The time it takes a planet to spin completely is what we call a day. On Earth a day is 24 hours, but on Saturn it is 18.2 hours. The planet with the longest day is Venus. A day on Venus takes 243 Earth days, which is longer than a planetary year on Venus (about 225 Earth days)!

In the 18th century, landscape painting became popular as a kind of art. (3) ______ tried to copy nature exactly in their paintings. Two of the first landscape artists were the English painters John Constable and JMW Turner. They were different from earlier painters because they painted their pictures (4) _____ and not inside a studio. Because of this, their paintings showed lots of differences in light and colour.

Landscape art became more and more important. From the 1860s a group of French artists called the 'impressionists' continued and added to this style. They needed to work more quickly because they were painting outside and the light and weather often changed. They started to paint with small spots which gave an 'impression' or idea of what they (5) ______ painting. Monet, Pissarro and Renoir were three famous impressionists who painted (6) ______ landscapes.

The artists who came after the impressionists, called the post impressionists, included Van Gogh and Gauguin. These artists continued to paint outside and they used bright colours. DID YOU KNOW ... ?

The holes in Swiss cheese are because of the gas made by bacteria.

1 Read and find the words for these photos.

Micro-organisms – smaller than a hair Micro-organisms are very small living things so we must use a microscope to see them. Two important kinds of microorganism are bacteria and fungus. Some micro-organisms are bad for our health, but others are good for us.

Micro-organisms which are bad for us Some food (especially meat) can have bacteria. Bacteria can't live in food which we cook well, but if you eat food that isn't cooked well, the bacteria can make you feel very ill. Bacteria grow best at warm temperatures. That's why we keep a lot of food in the fridge.

Mould is a micro-organism that grows on food. It can make you ill if you eat it.

We all have bacteria in our mouths. This is why we clean our teeth after every meal.

1

Health tips about micro-organisms which we don't want You can stop passing unhealthy micro-organisms from one place to another if you do these things.

- 1 Wash your hands with soap before you eat, after you touch food and after you go to the toilet.
- 2 Cover your mouth when you cough.
- 3 If you are ill, don't go where there are a lot of people.
- 4 Don't eat food which is not fresh or is not cooked well.
- 5 Keep uncooked meat away from other food in the fridge.

Micro-organisms which are good for us

Some micro-organisms are important for our body and to make some foods. For example, we use a micro-organism called yeast when we make bread. Yeast makes the bread mixture grow when we cook it. We also use a different micro-organism or bacteria to make yoghurt.

- 2 Where do we keep milk cold?
- 3 When do lumps form in milk?

Milk, yoghurt and cheese

We get milk from cows, sheep and (1) _goats If you bacteria can be bad for you, or make the milk (5) bad, but if your milk has the right (6) of bacteria it (7) yoghurt. Yoghurt tastes good and it is healthy, but you need to keep it in the fridge.

People tried using (8) kinds of bacteria with milk and then they (9) to make cheese. They usually use bacteria called rennet to make hard cheese. People keep some of these cheeses for three or four (10) or more because they like the taste of old cheese. What kind of cheese do you like, (11) cheese or soft cheese?
Do you (12) cheese made from sheep's, goat's or cow's milk? What's the difference in taste?

Project

Make some soft cheese.

You need:

- 2 litres of yoghurt
- 1 small spoon of salt
- Clean thin cloth
- 2 bowls
- Fork or whisk

There are lots of different kinds of cheese, all of which are made from milk with bacteria. It's easier to make cheese from yoghurt because it has live bacteria in it. If you can't do this at school, perhaps you can do it at home.

- 2 Add a small spoon of salt and mix it again.
- 3 Put it into the cloth. Lift the four corners and tie a knot in the cloth. Put it over the second bowl so the liquid can fall through the cloth. The 'cheese' then stays inside the cloth.
- 4 After about 24 hours you can open up the cloth.

 Form the cheese into a ball and keep it in the fridge.

 You must eat it in two days.

DID YOU KNOW ... ?

Oceans cover almost three quarters of Earth. The different oceans join together to make the biggest habitat on Earth.

1 Read and answer.

- 1 What is the first thing in every food chain?
- 2 What is the 'top predator' in the text? Think of another one.
- 3 Which is the predator: krill or whale? Which is the prey?
- 4 Talk about other problems in food chains. What can we do about them?

We eat fish, but what do fish eat? They eat very, very small plants and animals in the water and then other fish and animals, including us, eat them. This means that fish are part of a food chain. We can talk about food chains in rivers and oceans or about food chains on land.

Food chains always start with a green plant. In the sea these very small plants are called phytoplankton (plant plankton). All plants are called producers because they make (or 'produce') their food. Phytoplankton, like other plants, take energy from the Sun and make it into food. They are at the start of a food chain. Then there are very small animals called zooplankton (animal plankton) that eat the phytoplankton. In a spoon of sea water there can be a million phytoplankton and zooplankton. Animals and fish are called consumers because they eat (or 'consume') other plants and animals.

Look at this simple Antarctic food chain.

In this chain, the producer is the phytoplankton and the consumers are the krill and baleen whale. We also see here an example of prey and predator. A predator is an animal which eats another animal. The animal which the predator eats is called the prey.

Food chains end with top predators – animals which have no natural enemies. Sharks are examples of top predators.

Food chains are very important because they help us understand how nature lives together. If you take away part of the chain you change everything in that chain. For example, if you make the water dirty in the oceans, plankton will die. If there is no plankton, the small fish haven't got any food to eat. If the small fish haven't got any food, the big fish can't eat the small fish and so the problem goes up the chain.

- 2 part of the food chain which makes food =
- 3 part of the food chain which eats food =
- 4 a fish or animal which eats another fish or animal =

✓ This month we've talked to different people about their hobbies.

Harry enjoys clothes design. He makes amazing T-shirts and lots of his friends ask him to make T-shirts for them. He sews and paints the T-shirts.

Betty's had her skateboard for two years and she can do lots of exciting tricks. She goes to the skateboard park to practise jumping with her friends because you should never skateboard near the road.

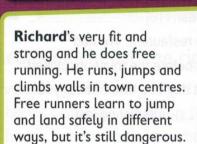

Emma's ridden a bike since she was five. She rides her mountain bike everywhere, but she enjoys it best when she and her dad go to a special bike trail. They can ride up and down hills and through woods.

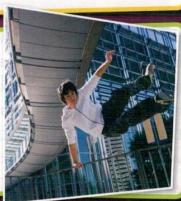

Kid's Box reports

Sarah loves playing board games. She plays chess in the school club and she's practising for a national competition. People have played chess for more than a thousand years.

Robert loves music, but he doesn't play an instrument. He uses his mouth to copy the sounds and rhythms of drums. This is called beatbox.

> rock rap jazz beatbox opera here are a lot of different kinds of music. To talk about them, we can look at the different instruments they use, but we also need to understand some of the different parts of a piece of music.

The melody is the tune, or the line of notes that you sing in a song. It is usually the easiest part to remember.

The tempo is the speed of the music. If you play music more quickly or more slowly, it changes how the music sounds.

The harmony is behind the melody. It changes how the music feels.

Popular music - then and now

The name pop music comes from popular music, but do you know what was popular over 200 years ago? Or 80 years ago? Here are some of the different styles of music.

Opera is a kind of classical music. It's 400 years old but was very popular 200 years ago. An opera is a musical play with an orchestra. The singers wear costumes and tell a story, so there are a lot of different melodies and tempos.

Jazz music combines music from North America and Africa, and many styles have developed since people started playing jazz 100 years ago. One of the most important things in jazz is improvisation. This means that musicians invent the music while they're playing it.

When we say pop music now, we think of short songs with a strong rhythm and a melody which is easy to remember. Rock music is a kind of pop music which was first very popular in the 1960s and 1970s. The singer sings the melody and electric and bass guitars give the harmonies. The drums and bass guitars are important for the rhythm.

Rap started over 20 years ago. Rappers sing or say their rhymes to beatbox or electronic rhythm. The melody isn't complicated and there isn't much harmony.

Beatbox is a new kind of singing. Singers only use their mouths and bodies to copy drums and other musical sounds. It's like rap, but there are more sounds than words. Have you tried it?

The first 'tattoos' came from the Pacific island of Tahiti.

1 Read the find the clothes that come from places a-d on the map.

Today clothes are made in factories, but many years ago people made clothes by hand with natural materials.

On the Pacific islands, people made their first clothes from leaves and from bark, which is on the outside of a tree. For dancing, men and women wore skirts made of grass and a headdress of flowers, feathers and shells. They also had earrings made of bones and shells.

People in China started to wear Han clothes over 3,000 years ago. They are made of silk, a cloth which comes from the silk worm. Some people still wear Han clothes today: a shirt, a jacket, a skirt or trousers and white socks and black shoes made of cotton.

Most Native North American men wore a long rectangular piece of leather with a belt, sometimes with leather trousers when it was cold. Leather is made from cow skin. Others wore trousers made of fur. Most men didn't wear shirts. The women wore skirts, trousers or dresses made from cloth or leather. Both men and women wore leather shoes. These are called moccasins.

In Europe 2,000 years ago men wore tunics. This is like a long T-shirt which comes down to your knees or your feet. When it was cold they wore shirts under their tunics and some men wore tights or trousers. It was only 500 years ago when men stopped wearing tights.

A lot of people have to wear special clothes at work or at school. These are called uniforms. Uniforms help us to identify people, so we can see what their job is or where they work or study. Some uniforms are also made of special materials to protect people when they work.

This is William. He's a firefighter from the Davis Fire Department in California, USA. In this picture he's wearing his day uniform. This is a shirt, which is made of cotton, and special trousers. He wears his day uniform when he isn't fighting fires.

- 1 His boots protect his feet. They are very strong. They are made of rubber and metal.
- 2 He wears these trousers over his day uniform. They're bigger than his other trousers so he can jump into them quickly. They've got big pockets and a plastic stripe at the bottom above the feet so people can see him in the dark.
- 3 His jacket protects the top of his body and helps him to stay dry. There are big pockets to carry things like a radio and his gloves.
- 4 He wears a special scarf around his neck which he can pull up over his head to protect it.
- 5 His mask is very important. It protects his face and eyes from the fire. It also protects his lungs because he mustn't breathe in gases.
- 6 His helmet is made of leather. Helmets which firefighters wear today are almost the same as the first ones from over 150 years ago, but they're better and stronger.
- 7 When the firefighter puts on his uniform, the last thing he puts on are his gloves. These are made of leather and they protect his hands from the fire.

DID YOU KNOW ...?

English is the only language that uses a capital letter for the word 'l'.

1 Read and answer.

- 1 How many English words have you studied?
- 2 Where does the word 'England' come from?

If you've studied all six Kid's Box books, you've learnt more than 1,140 words and you've seen more than 200 verbs. That's a lot of English words, but where do these words all come from?

Like many languages, English uses words from other languages. This started a long time ago when the Romans invaded England. Then it continued when different German tribes, the Angles, Saxons and Jutes, arrived. Some of the words they brought are 'kitchen', 'pepper' and 'cheese'. The name 'England' also comes from these 'Angles', and the country was then called 'Englaland'.

Hmm ... blue sky!

The people spoke a language which we now call 'Old English'. This is similar to the language of the Vikings, who invaded later. Viking words
include 'egg', 'leg',
'sky' and 'window'.

In 1066 the Normans from France invaded England, and English changed a lot.

During the next 300 years, the kings and queens liked speaking French and so English took a lot of words from French, for example 'art', 'mirror' and 'dance'. Since the Normans, no-one has invaded England.

English didn't take many more new words from other languages until people started to travel more in the 20th century. English now uses many food words from different countries, for example 'pizza' and 'pasta' from Italian and 'frankfurter' from German.

What do you think?

There are also a lot of international sports words, for example the Japanese sports 'karate' and 'judo'. Are they the same in your language? Did they come from English or from the countries where people first played the sport?

2 Complete the timeline.

The hungry snowman

My name is Anna. I live in a village in the mountains with my parents and my brother, Robert. Last Saturday it snowed, but on Sunday the sky was blue and it was a lovely day. Robert said, 'Let's make a snowman!' We put on our coats and hats and ran into the garden. We made a very big snowball for the snowman's body and a smaller one for his head.

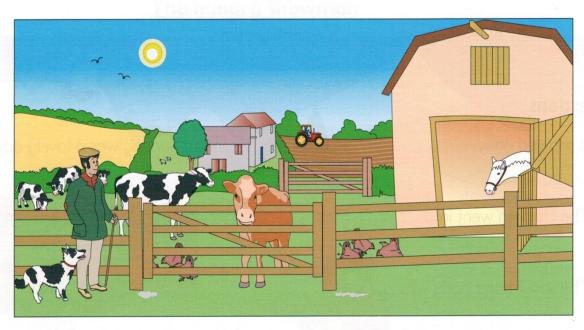

Then Robert said, 'I'm going to get something.' He went to the kitchen and brought a carrot for the snowman's nose and two potatoes for his eyes. Mum came outside to look at the snowman and said, 'Would you like to stop work for a minute and have a snack?' She brought us hot drinks and some cookies. I said, 'Let's finish the snowman first and eat the cookies later.' We gave him an old scarf and arms made of wood from a tree.

Then my friend Vicky phoned me and I went into the house and talked to her for a long time. When I came out again, I said, 'We can eat the cookies now, Robert', but I couldn't find them. 'Where are they?' I asked. 'They've gone,' he said. 'The snowman ate them all.' 'That's strange,' I said, 'because the snowman hasn't got a mouth!'
